DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Francischelli (US 2003/0073991) further in view of Kornerup (6679882). Francischelli discloses a device for clamping and ablating cardiac tissue comprising first and second jaws (16, 18), first and second elongated conducting members (20, 22), the jaws being generally parallel in a range of movement (paragraph 7), the first and second conductive members are connectable to an RF energy source (paragraph 5). Francischelli teaches all of the limitations of the claims except and at least one of the jaws are biased so as to urge the jaws toward a clamped position with a force that increases as the separation of the jaws increases. Kornerup discloses a similar electrosurgical device and teaches that it is old and well known in the art to bias the jaws with a force that increases as the separation of the jaws increases to clamp the tissue according to the diameter of the tissue (col. 3 lines 33-45). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to bias the jaws of Francischelli as claimed to provide a means of clamping the tissue according to the diameter of the tissue.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 9 -23 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1, 2, 7 and 11 of U.S. Patent No. 6517536 in view of Francischelli and Kornerup. Patent 6517536 teach all of the limitations of the claims except at least one of the jaws being biased so as to urge the jaws toward the clamped position with a force that increases as the separation of the jaws increases. Francischelli and Kornerup combined teach a similar device with jaws biased as recited in the claims to enable the device to compress the tissue being treated. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the biasing as taught by Francischelli and KorneRup on the device of the 6517536 patent to enable the device to compress the tissue being treated.
